Our Journey with Christ

God's mercy is new every morning (Lamentations 3:22-23). Just as God invites us to receive each new day as a gift from Him, as we enter a new year, we're invited to consider the abundance of God's love, grace, and faithfulness to us.

Above all, God wants us to seek Him. But there is no simple "just add water" way to do this, no formula to become a "perfect" Christian. God invites us, beckons us to come to Him just as we are.

The questions within are meant to serve as a guide, a tool in your hand as you seek God and consider how you might grow more deeply with Him in this year ahead. We're invited to ask God to shape us to be more like Him, to open our eyes to the sin we may be blind to or the hardness of our hearts that needs softening. We're also invited to ask God to show us the ways we've grown in our life with Him and to celebrate this growth.

Regardless of where we are on our journey, we are loved completely, and God's invitation to us is wide-open.
